¹ ABI is the industrial relations affiliate of Business NSW. Membership of ABI is free. ABI is federally registered under the Fair Work (Registered Organisations) Act 2009. ABI's main role is to develop workplace policy and to shape debate on major workplace relations issues. As an organisation of employers, it will always develop or respond to workplace issues from the perspective of business. ABI has three main functions. First, representation of members' interests in test cases, award matters and inquiries before the Fair Work Commission, the New South Wales Industrial Relations Commission and the Federal Courts. Second, advocacy and lobbying on behalf of employers' interests to federal and NSW government departments, regulatory authorities, ministers and opposition representatives about workplace and industrial relations issues. Third, information and education of members regarding developments in industrial relations and workplace law and policy matters. ABI also provides assistance to members to comply with relevant workplace and related legislation.

By signing this form, the signatory confirms that they are duly authorised to sign this form on behalf of the Applicant.
